

ORDER FULFILLMENT — STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE

Quality Firewood & Materials · eBay + online store shipping · effective July 2026

Paper runs this process. Every order becomes one packet — pull ticket, packing slip, shipping label — that travels with the box from print to staging. The systems get updated from the paper, by one person, at the end. Ten steps:

- 1. Print wave — 9:00 AM every open day. The office manager prints every new eBay and Shopify order: pull ticket + packing slip + shipping label, collated ONE clip per order, label stapled behind the slip. Buy labels at print time — except PULL-CONFIRM FIRST items, whose labels wait until the item is in hand. Dark days (Sunday, Tuesday): no order ever sits unprinted across a dark day — it prints the next open morning, first thing.
- 2. Hand-off to the yard. Clipped packets go to the TO PULL tray. Yesterday's exception packets ride on top — they are the oldest clocks.
- 3. Pull — Gate 1. Find the item by SKU + yard location. Move it WITH its packet to staging. Initial PULLED. Can't find it, or it's damaged? Mark the exception box and the packet goes straight to the red EXCEPTIONS tray — never onward.
- 4. Pack — Gate 2. ONE order on the table at a time. Verify the item against the slip (second set of eyes whenever staffing allows), slip goes in the box. Initial PACKED. The next order's packet does not touch the table until this box is sealed.
- 5. Label and seal — Gate 3. The three-way match. Read the order number aloud off ticket, slip, and label — all three must match — THEN apply the label and tape the box. Initial LABELED. This one habit prevents the classic small-shipper disaster: two customers receiving each other's boxes.
- 6. Carrier hand-off — get the acceptance scan. Same day or next open morning. The ACCEPTANCE SCAN stops eBay's handling clock — not the drop-off. Counter scan or scanned pickup, every time.
- 7. Paper comes home. Completed packets land in the COMPLETED — TO ENTER tray on the office manager's desk.
- 8. Entry — Gate 4. The office manager is the only person who touches the systems. Work the red EXCEPTIONS tray FIRST (cancel / substitute / re-pull decision same day; void unused labels promptly). Then per completed ticket: eBay — upload tracking; Shopify — Mark as Fulfilled with tracking (this sends the customer's shipping email). Write the tracking number on the ticket and initial ENTERED.
- 9. Reconcile both directions. Any open order in eBay/Shopify with no ticket in a tray — hunt the paper. Any ticket with no matching open order — investigate before filing. This catch is what prevents the silent killer: a box that shipped but was never marked shipped.
- 10. File. Completed tickets file chronologically by ship date, one folder per week, channel marked on each ticket. Keep 3–4 years — a filed ticket with initials and tracking number is our proof of ship date in any dispute.

THE NON-NEGOTIABLES

- One order on the packing table at a time.
- Three-way match — ticket = slip = label — before tape.
- The carrier acceptance scan stops the clock, not the drop-off.
- The red EXCEPTIONS tray is worked first, every day.
- All system entry goes through the office manager, off the paper.
